General Information

Awards Eligibility

Members Who Work in One State and Live in Another:

NAEA members may be nominated for awards based on the state and region that they work in. If a member lives in one state or region, but works in another, they may be nominated only according to where they work, not where they live. All nominations must indicate where the member works.

Members Who Work Across Division Levels, Including K-12 and K-8: A member is eligible only for an award for their respective membership division, where applicable.

Eligibility of NAEA Leadership: NAEA Board Members, Board Members-Elect, Regional Division Directors, are ineligible for NAEA Awards during their terms.

Eligibility of State Leadership: Members who currently serve as voting members (elected or appointed) of a state association Board are ineligible to be nominated for NAEA regional, divisional, or national awards while in office.

Eligibility of Committee Members: Individuals serving on the awards committee cannot be considered as candidates for the award.

Nominating Family Members: Immediate family members (spouses, children, parents, siblings) may not nominate other family members for awards.

Regional Art Educator of the Year Award and Regional Division Art Educator of the Year Award: NAEA will receive nominations for regional award candidates from any member and validate member/division status. All qualified regional award nominees will be sent to States/Provinces for review of State/Province Regional Award candidates.

States/Provinces may identify more than one candidate for Regional Art Educator of the Year Award and more than one candidate for each of the Regional Division Awards.

National Awards: NAEA will receive submissions from any member for national award nominations and validate member status for all nominees. NAEA will forward all nominees to the respective national award committee chairs for committee selection of national award winners.

Nomination Letters: Nominators and nominees should be able to craft support letters so that they can be used for both state and national level nominations, in order to move state-level honorees forward to national-level award nomination.

Awards Program Rubrics

All Awards Program Rubrics are posted on the NAEA website: www.arteducators.org

Rubrics That Will Be Used for Judging all Regional and National Awards: These rubrics will be used for reviewing the nominations submitted for all NAEA awards. A rubric has been created for judging the submissions for each award. These rubrics will be posted on the website so that both the individuals being nominated and those who are nominating others for awards can see them. For regional and national awards, rubrics have been created to recognize the differentiation in roles among divisions, with separate rubrics for Higher Education, Museum, Supervision/Administration, and a combined rubric for Elementary/Middle/Secondary Divisions.

Optional State/Province Association Rubrics: State/Province Associations are not required to use the State/Province rubrics. Rubrics for these awards, which correspond to the regional and national awards, have also been developed for the State/Province Associations should the State/Province Association want to adopt a rubric parallel to the rubrics that will be used for reviewing nominations at the regional and national levels.

Frequently Asked Questions

The following tips may be helpful when considering making nominations for NAEA Awards. Descriptions for each award and the materials required for nomination are listed on the following pages. Please refer to these descriptions before submitting a nomination.

Who may nominate?

Individual Members, State/Province Associations, and Issues Groups may make nominations.

Who is eligible?

NAEA members who meet the established criteria are eligible to be nominated for awards. However, membership is not required for the Eisner Lifetime Achievement, Distinguished Service Outside the Profession, and COMC J. Eugene Grigsby, Jr. Awards. How are Awards recipients selected?

The NAEA National Office verifies that all nominees are eligible and that nomination information is complete. Nominations are then sorted and forwarded to the Chair who oversees the selection committee for each award.

Rubrics have been created for judging the submissions for each award, and are posted on the NAEA website. Results are reported to the NAEA National Office.

Please Note: If no nominees meet the criteria for a specific award, a recipient will not be selected.

What is the deadline for nominations?

Unless otherwise stated in the award description, nomination packets must be submitted to the NAEA National Office digitally or postmarked on or before October 1.

Please Note: The NAEA National Office processes and ships more than 100 awards to the National Convention. Nominations for national and regional awards cannot be accepted after the deadline.

About the NAEA Awards Program

The first NAEA Award, “NAEA Art Educator of the Year,” was presented at the 1955 National Convention in Cleveland, Ohio, by Dr. Edwin Ziegfeld, the first President of NAEA. In 1977, the NAEA Awards Program was initiated to recognize outstanding art educators in all Divisions and Regions, and from each state and province. Growing in scope since its inception, the program continues to add new awards.

The objectives of the NAEA Awards Program are:

- To recognize excellence in the many outstanding individuals, State/Province Associations, and programs of NAEA;
- To focus professional attention on quality art education and exemplary art educators;
- To increase public awareness of the importance of quality art education;
- To set standards for quality art education and how they can be achieved; and
- To provide tangible recognition of achievement, earn respect of colleagues, and enhance professional opportunities for NAEA members.

Digital materials are challenging how we respond to issues such as: determinism and freedom, success and failure, personal and group relationships, and make ethical and aesthetic judgments.

One of the most powerful ways we can address such issues and embody new understandings within our lives is through creative experiences in visual arts.

Descriptions of NAEA Awards

Eisner Lifetime Achievement Award

A professional award established in perpetuity by Dr. Elliot W. Eisner, Lee Jacks Professor of Education and Art, School of Education, Stanford University, and NAEA to recognize individuals in the field of art education who have made a sustained and significant contribution to the field through their work as a teacher, lecturer, or artist. The award is not limited to individuals who work in the field of higher education. It includes those who work in preschool, primary school, secondary school, and colleges and universities. It is not restricted with respect to the level of work or the type of work that individuals may undertake during the course of their professional lives, but seeks to recognize individuals who have made notable contributions to the field of visual arts education through a lifetime of work.

Purpose

The Eisner Lifetime Achievement Award is established to recognize individuals in art education whose career contributions have benefited the field. The award is intended to honor the professional achievements of those who have advanced the cause of art education in various ways.

These might include, for example, contributing to the knowledge and understanding of the processes of artistic growth and development; furthering the theory and practice of teaching and learning about art; promoting the role and effectiveness of art education in schools; and, developing accountability systems for assessing performance in art. This is not an exhaustive list, but is intended to indicate the types of professional achievements and contributions deserving of career recognition.

The emphasis of the award is on aggregate contribution, not a single or isolated episode.

The Award

The Eisner Lifetime Achievement Award consists of three parts: (1) a cash award; (2) a reception or other event, on the occasion of which the award winner shall make an acceptance lecture; and, (3) presentation to the award winner of a commemorative item to mark the occasion. There are no required uses for the stipend; it is entirely the choice of the award winner as to how the prize is to be used. Any/all taxes on the award are the responsibility of the winner.

Eligibility

Eligibility is open to any individual whose career contributions have made a sustained and significant contribution to the field of visual arts education through their work. The award should be given to an individual, and not to an organization, group, or institution. However, the Directors, in their discretion, may decide to split the award if that seems appropriate (e.g., a husband-and-wife professional team; or co-authors). There is no minimum age or years of service in the field to qualify for nomination for the award. The winner need not be a member of NAEA, nor necessarily be professionally recognized as an art educator. No single individual may receive the award more than one time.

Submit

A letter of nomination and support from a colleague, a curriculum vita highlighting significant work in or related to the field of art education, a one-page (12 pt) statement written by the nominee describing the significance of their personal contributions to the field of art education, and a recent portrait photograph (5 x 7 or smaller).

Refer to the rubric for this award for additional information about Manuel Barkan.
